- Hospital Branding and Marketing Strategy

- Assist hospitals with commissioning of totally new hospitals or clinics, provide professional assistance with planning, financing, staffing and commissioning of the facility to provide services that are accessible, clinically and culturally appropriate, timely and affordable.
- Match local community needs for healthcare services and determine hospital desired outcomes.
- Assure readiness of hospital building facility, including sustainable building technologies, building management systems, and healthcare technologies are installed and perform in accordance with the hospital intents.
- Assign key expertise, C-suite and core operating staff based on the project's timeline, in addition to start recruiting of physicians and specialists in accordance with the hospital's anticipated services lines and related needs.
- During this pre-operational phases, American Health develops Hospital operating Policies and Procedures.
- Implement Financial Controls/Processes, Pricing Strategy and agreement with potential insurance companies, private employers and government entities to provide healthcare services while ensuring proper payments terms and ensuring positive cash flow.

- Successful delivery of 21st century hospital healthcare comes with more clinical challenges and more operational quality thresholds to surpass. American Health works with several hospital quality improvement experts who have worked at all levels in a hospital, held administrator and clinical operating roles, and have experienced most of the problems that that newly constructed or existing hospitals experience today. To be successful, hospitals have to work hard to meet international standards.
- American Health's Hospital Assessment and Quality Improvement services are led by a group of senior healthcare executives who have many years of experience managing leading hospitals and clinics throughout the United States. Our team members are not academics, nor professional consultants; each of them has been personally responsible for building and managing hospitals and clinics, recruiting staff and building high-performing organizations and leading management programs to improve medical outcomes and deliver outstanding patient care.
- At the hospital department level, American Health works with a team of physician and nursing clinicians and leaders from prestigious medical facilities such as Harvard, Cornell Columbia and other acclaimed institutions to provide an in-depth review of current practices and offer a comprehensive plan for a Center of Excellence in the reviewed specialty area.
